RECENT DEATHS.

Hooker.

Orman V. Hooker was born in Cabot, Oct. 18, 1836, the son of Liberty H. and Almira E. Hooker. He was of a family of 11 children, all of whom lived to grow to manhood and womanhood. There are now living two sisters, Mrs. I. E. Woodard and Mrs. Flora Hale, both of Cabot and one brother, Amos, in California, and Lyman S. Hooker of Detroit, Mich.

Mr. Hooker worked with his father in his saw mill, and on the farm until he was 20 years old, when he married Julia E. Darling of the same town, and built him a blacksmith shop and started in business for himself, doing job work in both wood and iron. He soon had to build a larger shop, develop a water power, and add machinery to do the work. He now began the manufacture of both buggy and farm wagon sleds, etc., and enjoyed the reputation of building the best in his line. There are today wagons and sleds in use, and in good condition made by him over 50 years ago.

In 1876 he moved to St. Johnsbury and formed a partnership with Daniel Thompson, and took over the business of the Paddock Iron Works. This continued for about one year, when O. V. Hooker retired from the company. He was in the employ of the St. J. & L. C. R. R. for several months, when he built a shop. This is a part of the present plant.

In the spring of 1879 his son, F. B. Hooker, was made one of the company of O. V. Hooker & Son, which became a corporation in 1912.

Of his family of 10 children, three are living, Frank B. and Mrs. Cora Ayers of St. Johnsbury, and Carl E. of Haverhill, Mass. He is also survived by seven grandchildren.

He made his home with his children after the death of his wife, Aug. 27, 1906, until the past year, when his daughter Mrs. Ayers came to his house, and made a home for him.

At the time of his death, Friday, Dec. 31, he was on a visit to his son Carl in Haverhill.

His funeral was held at his home at two o'clock Monday, Jan. 3, Rev. C. L. Eaton of the Universalist church officiating, assisted by Rev. J. Franklin Babb of Haverhill.

Gorham.

Charles Edward Gorham died Monday night, Jan. 2, after a long period of failing health, at the age of 73 years, 5 months. He was born at Boston, August 6, 1842, the son of Silas and Wealtha Wright Gorham. At Lincoln's first call for 75,000 men he enlisted in the Fifth Massachusetts

Infantry, where he served three months. Later he reenlisted in the 22nd Massachusetts and served three years. He was first sergeant of Company B. After the war he came to Barnet where he lived for 20 years. In 1869 he married Henrietta L. Blodgett of Cabot. They moved to St. Johnsbury in 1887 where they have made their home since. Three children were born to them, Emily, who died in 1902, Margaret, Mrs. T. A. Glaser of Boston and Henry of Philadelphia. Besides Mrs. Gorham and his son and daughter he is survived by three grandsons, children of Henry W. Gorham. The funeral will be held at the house Thursday afternoon, at 1:30, Rev. P. D. Moody officiating. The G. A. R. Chamberlin Post of which he was a member will attend in a body. He will be missed from the Post as well as by his family and many friends.

Massey.

On Monday, Jan. 3, occurred the death of Mrs. Joseph Massey of 23 Concord avenue, aged 30 years. She is survived by a husband, and three children. Funeral services were held at nine o'clock this morning at Notre Dame church.

McINDOE FALLS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown returned to Burlington Monday morning on the early train.

Mrs. W. W. Dow spent Thursday at the home of Mr. Dow's brother in Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Miller of Passumpsic have been visiting her sister, Mrs. Ira Colby.

Mrs. E. L. Field and Mrs. John Cass entertained a few friends at their home Saturday evening.

Miss Alice Moore has returned to her school at Barre, Beverly, Mass., and Mrs. Carrie Leighton of Bath were guests at R. M. Johnson's Thursday.

Mrs. Lydia Kimball is at home after spending the holidays at Woodsville. Murray Little's baby remains about the same, having a hard case of bronchitis. Merton and Howard are at the home of their grandparents, M. D. Hunt's. Mrs. Mary Smiley is helping Mrs. Little.

CONCORD

Mr. and Mrs. Louis DeBlois of Barre surprised their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Goudreau, New Year's morning by wishing them a Happy New Year by the telephone. But the most touching part of it was for the grandmother to hear in the same tone, the voices of the six oldest children of her oldest daughter, Georgianna, wishing her and grandpa a Happy New Year.

Green Mountain Grange.

(Mrs. Emma C. Massey, Reporter.) There was a large attendance at the regular meeting of Green Mountain Grange, No. 1, which was held at St. Johnsbury Center, last Saturday evening and the reports of the officers showed not only that good work had been done during the past year but that the officers and members were working together co-operatively and harmoniously for the one great object, the upbuilding of the Grange and its membership. The officers for the ensuing year were installed by Sister Nellie Whitney, who acting as deputy, gave the charges in a very impressive and pleasing manner. She was assisted by Brother Charles N. Whitney, who did his part equally well. Visiting members present were Worthy Master, D. D. Gray and Mrs. Gray, Enterprise Grange, No. 16, of Lyndon; Ella McLaughlin, Mrs. John Drew and Charles Butler, Wide Awake Grange, No. 66. At the close of the meeting the following short program was given, after which about 100 partook of the bountiful repast prepared by the committee in charge. Song by Grange; reading, "When We Get There," Ina Farnham; recitation, "New Year's Resolutions," L. Hall; discussion, "Co-operation and Direct Selling," Homer Shattuck, P. P. Prescott, E. M. Massey, C. I. Hall; song by Grange.

In response to an invitation received from Passumpsic Valley Grange, No. 322, to visit them on Tuesday evening, Dec. 28, 40 members of Green Mountain Grange, No. 1, including the ladies' degree team, availed themselves of the opportunity. The third and fourth degrees were conferred on several candidates by the degree team of the visiting Grange, hearty applause being given them at the close of the work. At the close of the meeting a short program was rendered after which an oyster supper was served and a social hour enjoyed by all, ere they separated for their respective homes, carrying with them pleasant memories of the occasion.

Burke Mountain Grange.

At the last meeting of Burke Mountain Grange, No. 409, at East Burke Tuesday night a very interesting session was held. The third and fourth degrees were conferred on two candidates, the literary program was as follows: Address by the Rev. I. A. Rose, subject, "Fast, Present and Future," singing by Milton Leo and Gordon Cole, accompanied by Mrs. Grace Cole on piano; essay, "Coaling Ships at Sea," Alvah Freeto; reading, Myron Gilson; singing, Clifford Vance and Edith Mathers, accompanied by Mildred Vance on piano; reading, Wallace Russell, essay, "The Man that Does Things," Bion Humphrey, Jr.; recitation, Wilbur Leaver; singing, Edith Mathers. Refreshments were served by the social committee, Harry W. Winslow, Clyde Gilson, Freeman Lang. Promenading was then enjoyed. Mabel Vance gave a splendid report of the State Grange at Burlington that she attended as delegate. There has been a steady increase in attendance during the past year. A good many old members have been reinstated and a large number of new members have been admitted. The next meeting, Tuesday evening, Jan. 11, will be installation of officers.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The annual meeting of the Outlook club was held with Mrs. Mary Underwood, Caledonia street, Dec. 29. In behalf of the club Mrs. Susanne Drew presented Mrs. Underwood with flowers and in a nice speech told her of the appreciation of the club for her work in the past year. Mrs. Underwood was urged to retain the office of president but felt obliged to decline. Mrs. Bessie M. Cummings was then elected as president. The report of the treasurer showed that the club had paid out for benevolence over $27. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Mabel Moffett, Lafayette street, Jan. 5. A lecture will be given on food values by Miss Ina Underwood, a graduate of domestic science from a college in Northfield, Mass. The club has bought the history of St. Johnsbury to be read aloud at the regular meetings.

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore LaLiberty was celebrated at their home on Passumpsic street last Monday evening. About 85 friends were present and the evening was spent with dancing and cards. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the Misses Anna, Alice, Blanch LaLiberty. Sargent's orchestra of five pieces furnished the music and punch was daintily served by Misses Flora Roberts and Marion Stevens. The members of the club are Misses Rebecca Bowen, Madeline Clark Eva Howe, Phoebe Scott, Harriet Weeks, Mary Grint, Laura Stanley, Hazel Walker, Della Walker, Mildred Chesley. It is hoped that many more equally successful parties will be given by the club in the near future.

May Have More Trouble in Mexico.

The Mexican muddle has introduced an important influence affecting our future relations with all Latin-American. For reasons to be stated briefly, more forward-looking men than are apparently in charge of our diplomatic affairs are gravely concerned as to the attitude toward the United States and the Monroe Doctrine of some of the European Powers, following the fact that the Senate for ratification destroyed the only Government existing in Mexico, one recognized alike by Germany, France, Great Britain and other great European rivals of this country for Latin-American trade. We substituted no other Government for that of Huerta, and it is believed that when Europe is again in a position to give attention to other matters than war, the United States will be called upon to pay some of the damages inflicted by the Mexican revolutionists. In fact, it is privately conceded here that the course of the Administration has been such that it cannot avoid responsibility for payment without war. The most determined attempts will be made by Germany and other European creditors to collect their bills for damages and they are expected to look to the United States rather than to an irresponsible and bankrupt Mexican Government for satisfaction. Dozens of American business men, and no doubt as many foreigners, can testify that Mr. Bryan, while Secretary of State, refused the most ordinary protection to foreign interests in Mexico, while it is notorious that when Tampico was threatened American naval vessels were ordered to anchor nine miles offshore that they might not assist in the protection of Americans, who were given protection by British and German naval officers. Foreign property to the value of hundreds of millions of dollars has been destroyed in Mexico through the refusal of the United States to protect or allow it to be protected. Europe has no time now to be impatient over this situation, but it is believed that small regard for the Monroe Doctrine or for American protests will be entertained by some of the European Powers until their demands for reparation are satisfied. It is for this reason largely that the situation calls for the broadest and most intelligent diplomacy in preparing for eventualities in Latin-America.

Incidentally, the Administration may have a busy time securing confirmation by the Senate of Henry P. Fletcher, the newly appointed ambassador to Mexico. Inconceivable as it may appear, the Senate has not yet received official notice that the President has recognized a government in Mexico. He made no reference to the fact in his message to Congress, and the first intimation, officially, of any such action came when the nomination of Mr. Fletcher to be ambassador was sent to the Senate for ratification. The Senate has not been informed to whom Mr. Fletcher will be accredited or where he will go. Carranza, who is recognized only as "first chief" in Mexico, is roaming about the country witnessing military parades and listening to band concerts in his honor. The American embassy building still exists in Mexico City but that city is under control of Pablo Gonzales, with Emilio Zapata snooping around the outskirts taking what he can get. Will Ambassador Fletcher go to Monterey, to Sattillo, to Torreon or will he be instructed to tag around after Carranza until that individual alights? Carranza does not dare to enter what for generations has been the capital city of Mexico, yet the United States, according to the Administration program, would send there one of its most accomplished diplomats to await his perhaps impossible coming. The whole thing is so farcical, so ridiculous, so humiliating, that one hesitates to discuss it, but the situation is as stated.—Special Correspondence in Boston Transcript.

Land for the Mexican Peons.

There will be a big howl about the division of Mexican estates under the new government, but not a great many people will participate in the howl. The Carranza policy, unjust as it is sure to be in some cases, means in general the restoration to the Mexican people of lands that were stolen from them and given to foreigners under the Diaz regime. It means, too, if successfully worked out, the elimination of the fundamental cause of the discontent which found expression in the revolution.

Hundreds of landlords, most of them American and British, some of them Mexican, are being stripped of their estates. Whether any compensation is to be made is not yet apparent. It is certain, however, that if the landlords get no more for their land than they paid for it, it wouldn't bankrupt Mexico to vote them compensation. Most of the vast fertile tracts held by absentee landlords and by such native potentates as the Terrazas family were bought for a few cents an acre.

The size of these estates is almost incredible. The property held by Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst in western Chihuahua is said to comprise 3,000,000 acres. The Rockefeller-Aldrich syndicate owns a 2,000,000 acre ranch in the state of Zacatecas. British and American interests hold under the title or lease more than 20,000,000 acres in the Tampico oil region. There are huge ranches and plantations owned by Americans scattered all through northern Mexico.

Most of the property in question was formerly known as "community lands." It was divided into small farms held and worked by peasants without titles. It supported in modest comfort a great population which, since the land was taken and consolidated into big estates, has been reduced to helpless peasantry. The agrarian commissions maintain the same simply restoring those community lands to their rightful owners, as an act of social justice and a guarantee of the future peace and prosperity of Mexico. The unscrambling process is drastic, but there is much to be said for it.—Rutland News.

LYNDON

On Saturday night, as Daniel Davis and another man were driving home from a hunting trip, their sleigh tipped over near David Hannett's and the horse ran away. After running for some distance the horse cut across the fields and plunged into the mill pond near Arkly's shop. When found it had been in the water for about two hours and only its head was visible. After much difficulty it was gotten out and by constant rubbing and working on it for two days the horse is thought to be saved.

Don't worry. Advertise what you have to sell is all that is necessary, worry takes too much vitality.
